PREFACE.

It being six years since a Directory was published in Hudson, the inducements were sufficient for undertaking this work. And in presenting it to the citizens of Hudson the publisher feels that he not only remedies a great necessity that has long existed here, but at the same time furnishes a valuable record of the business of the City of Hudson and Columbia County, which enables strangers to form a correct idea of their importance, and business men to transact their affairs in about half the time that they have been compelled to spend heretofore.

The present volume contains a general and business Directory of the City of Hudson, a Town business Directory of Columbia County, the United States, State, County and City Governments, a list of Manufactories, Societies, Churches, Schools, Academies, Asylums, etc. A record of the Soldiers and Officers, as near as could be obtained, from the City and County, enlisted in different regiments; of the 128th Regiment N. Y. S. V.; of Company K., 14th Regiment N. Y. S. V.; a sketch of Columbia County taken from French's Gazetteer of New York, as also an Appendix of other aluable information.

The publisher return thanks to those who have aided him materially by advertising and subscribing, to those who assisted him in gaining the desired information, and to the citizens generally for their courtesy in giving the names, etc.

Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1862, by

WILLIAM V. HACKETT,

In the Clerk's Office of the District Court of the Northern District of New York.

HISTORY OF COLUMBIA COUNTY.

[From French's Gazetteer of New York.]

This county was formed from Albany, April 4, 1786. It lies upon the east bank of the Hudson, between Rensselaer and Dutchess counties, and extends east to the Massachusetts line. It contains an area of 688 square miles, and is centrally distant 29 miles from Albany. The Taghkanick Mountains extend along the east border, and the adjoining parts of the county, are broken by numerous irregular ranges of hills which constitute the outlying spurs of those mountains. The west part of the county consists of an undulating plateau terminating in bluffs on the Hudson River. The principal streams are Roeliff Jansen's Kil and Claverack and Kinderhook Creeks. Upon these streams and their tributaries are numerous valuable mill sites. In the east and north parts of the county are several picturesque lakes, the principal of which are Kinderhook, Copake, and Charlotte Lakes, and Whittings, Robinson, Snyder, and Rhoda Ponds. The prevailing rocks are the Hudson River shales. The slate rocks in this county crop out toward the west, usually an angle of 45°, but sometimes almost vertically. Limestone crops out in different parts of the county. Brown hematitic iron ore is found in numerous localities in the east part of Ancram and Copake. Lead has been mined in Ancram, and manganese, peat and marl are found in different localities. In New Lebanon are the celebrated thermal springs; in Stockport are other mineral springs, and in Chatham is a small sulphur spring.

The various branches of agriculture form the leading industrial pursuits of the people. Hay (of which large quantities are pressed and sent to market), rye, oats, corn, potatoes, and buckwheat, are the staple productions. Stock raising and dairying receive considerable attention. The manufacture of paper, cotton fabrics, vegetable extracts, and iron, is largely carried on. A greater quantity of paper is made in this county than of any other in the State, and the county also takes precedence of all other in the amount of tinctures and extracts prepared from medicinal plants.

The city of Hudson is the county seat. The court house and jail is a fine building, fronting on Washington Square. It has a marble front, with an Ionic portico, and contains the court and jury rooms, and the county clerk's, sheriff's and district attorney's offices. The poor house is a spacious brick building located upon a farm of 200 acres in Ghent.

The most important works of internal improvement are the Hudson River Railroad, extending through the west part of the county, the Albany & West Stockbridge Railroad, through the north part, the Hudson & Boston Railroad terminating at Hudson, and the New York & Harlem Railroad terminating at Chatham Four Corners. Four newspapers are published in the county.

The first settlements were made in the north part of the county, under the Dutch Government. The east border was settled chiefly by squatters from New England. Livingston Manor was patented July 22, 1686, and first settled by tenants about the beginning of the last century. The most important settlement was made by German Palatinates, in 1710, upon a tract of 6000 acres—now constituting the principal part of Germantown—which had been sold back to the Government by Robert Livingston. The territory of Massachusetts under its charter, extended westward to the Pacific Ocean, and grants were made by that colony. Conflicting claims gave rise to bitter contentions and riotous outbreaks. Arrests made under Massachusetts warrants led to riots and bloodsheds. Combinations were formed to dispossess the proprietor of the Livingston Manor, which resulted in tumults and murders.* These difficulties continued until after the Revolution. During the Revolutionary War, and for several years after, this section of the country was much infested by robbers, and acts of violence were of frequent occurrence. The anti-rent movement of 1840-50 extended to the Livingston Manor, the John J. Van Rensselaer Tract, and other districts held by leasehold. In December, 1844, the Governor ordered out seven companies of militia to assist the sheriff of this county in the discharge of his duties. Most of the leases which had been issued were for one, two or three lives; but the anti-rent difficulties have led to the policy of conveying the title in fee as rapidly as circumstances will admit.

ANCRAM—was formed from Livingston, March 19, 1803, as "Gallatin." Its name was changed March 25, 1814, and Gallatin was taken off in 1830. It is the southeast corner town of the county. The surface is broken and hilly. In the east part the hills range in a north and south direction, but elsewhere they are irregular. Roeliff Jansen's Kil crosses the town in a southwest direction. A narrow interval, bordered by steep, irregular hills, extends along its course. The soil is a gravelly loam intermixed with clay. Iron ore has been obtained at different places from the hills upon the east border of the town, and lead ore is mined at Hot Ground. Ancram, situated on Roeliff Jansen's Kil, in the west part of the town, contains two churches, a paper mill, a saw mill, and about thirty houses. Hot Ground (Ancram Lead Mines p. o.), and Boston Corner, a station on the Harlem Railroad are hamlets. The town was first settled by the Dutch, in the neighborhood of Ancram village. There are three churches in town: the Evangelical Lutheran, Methodist Episcopal and Presbyterian.

AUSTERLITZ—was formed from Canaan, Chatham and Hillsdale, March 28th, 1818. It lies on the east border of the county north of the center. The east and central parts are broken by irregular ranges of hills, and the west part is undulating. The principal streams are Green River in the east and Punsit Creek in the west. The soil is gravally loam intermixed in some parts with slate and clay. The hills are mostly arable to their summits. Spencertown, on Punsit Creek, in the west part of the town, contains two churches, an academy and two grist mills. Population 225. Austerlitz, in the valley of Green River, contains two churches and one hundred and fifty inhabitants. Upper Green River is a hamlet in the south east part of the town. The first settlements were made about 1745 to 1750, by squatters from Connecticut. Disputes concerning the ownership of lands and difficulties about lands thus appropriated arose; and on the 31st of May, 1757, the settlers appointed a committee to adjust the difficulties. About 1774, Nathaniel Culver and James Savage were sent to England to secure a grant of these lands to these settlers; but, owing to the trouble existing between the mother county and the colonies, they were unsuccessful. The land titles were finally settled by the act of March 22, 1791. There are now four churches in town: Christian, Congregational, Methodist Episcopal and Presbyterian. The first church (Congregational) was organized in 1750, and Rev. Jesse Clark was the first pastor.

CANAAN—was formed as Kings District, March 24, 1772, and its name was changed March 7, 1788. A part of Chatham was taken off in 1795, and New Lebanon and a part of Austerlitz in 1818. It is situated on the east border of the county between Austerlitz and New Lebanon. A range of mountains or hills separate it from Massachusetts. The surface is broken and hilly. Whiting's Pond, in the east part of the town, is about two miles in circumference. Its outlets are tributary to Kinderhook Creek and affords several valuable mill sites. The soil is gravelly or slaty loam and clay. The hills are mostly arable to their summits. Near the center of the town is a slate quarry. Canaan-Four Corners, a station on the Albany & West Stockbridge Railroad, contains one church and thirty-two dwellings; Flat Brook, a station on the same railroad, contains one church and fifteen dwellings. Canaan (p. o.) and Canaan Center (p. o.) are hamlets. Queechy, on the outlet of Whiting's Pond, contains one church, two paper mills, a saw mill, a grist mill and twenty-one dwellings; and Red Rock, in the southwest corner of the town, contains three churches, a saw mill, a grist mill and thirty dwellings. Two families of Shakers, consisting of about seventy-five persons, reside in the northeast part of the town. They are chiefly engaged in farming, and their estate consists of over 1400 acres. They raise garden seeds to a limited extent, and manufacture brooms, mop sticks, and other similar articles. The settlement of the town was commenced about 1756. At a meeting of the citizens of Kings District (June 24, 1776), held for the purpose of choosing delegates to the Provincial Congress, it was voted to recommend to that body the passage of a declaration of independence. There are seven churches in town: two Baptist, two Methodist Episcopal, Christian, Congregational and Presbyterian.

CHATHAM—was formed from Canaan and Kinderhook, March 17, 1795, and parts of Austerlitz and Ghent were taken off in 1818. It lies near the center of the north border of the county. The surface is moderately hilly, the ranges generally extending north and south. The principal stream is Kinderhook Creek, upon which are numerous mill sites. The soil in the valleys is gravelly loam intermixed with clay, and upon the hills it is slaty. The valleys are broad and fertile, and the hills arable to their summits. Near New Concord is a sulphur spring. Chatham Four Corners, is situated partly in this town and partly in Ghent. It is an important station on the Albany & West Stockbridge Railroad and the Hudson & Boston Railroad, and is the terminus of the Harlem Railroad. The depots of these roads are in Ghent. The village contains three churches, a machine shop and three foundries. Population 697. East Chatham, a station on the Albany & West Stockbridge Railroad near the line of Canaan, contains two churches, a grist mill, a saw mill and candle factory. Population 245. New Concord contains one church, and 109 inhabitants; Chatham, one church, a furnace and plow factory, grist mill and saw mill, and a population of 214; Rayville, a Friend's meeting house and thirteen houses; Chatham Center, one church and 127 inhabitants; Malden Bridge, one church, a paper mill, saw mill and tannery, and a population of 193; Riders's Mills, a grist mill, saw mill and twelve houses. North Chatham, contains two churches, a saw mill, grist mill and plaster mill. Population 179. The settlement of this town commenced about 1725. The settlers were from Kinderhook, but originally from Holland. A company from Connecticut settled at New Concord in 1758. The census reports eleven churches in town: six Methodist Episcopal, two Baptist, Christian, Congregational and Reformed Protestant Dutch.

CLAVERACK—was formed as a district, March 24, 1772. Hillsdale was taken off in 1782, and Hudson 1785. It was recognized as a town, March 7, 1788. A part of Ghent was taken off in 1818. It lies near the center of the county. The surface in the west part is undulating, and in the east hilly. Claverack Creek, upon the west border of the town, and its tributaries, are the principal streams. The soil is a rich loam in the west and a gravelly loam intermixed with slate in the east. Claverack, in the west part of the town, a station on the Hudson & Boston Railroad contains two churches and the Claverack Academy and Hudson River Institute; population 595; Mellenville, a station on the Hudson & Boston Railroad contains two churches, a grist mill and thirty dwellings; and Philmont, a station on the Harlem Railroad contains several manufacturing establishments and thirty-five dwellings. South Bend Mills, Martindale Depot (p. o.) and Humphreysville (p. o.) are hamlets. Smoky Hollow contains several manufactories and twenty-five dwellings, and Churchtown one church and fourteen dwellings. The Reformed Protestant Dutch Church, Claverack, was organized in 1716, and the present edifice was erected in 1765. There are six churches in town: two Reformed Protestant Dutch, Baptist, Evangelical Lutheran, Methodist Episcopal and Protestant Episcopal.

CLERMONT—was formed from the Livingston Manor, March 12, 1787. It lies upon the Hudson, in the southwest corner of the county. The surface is undulating. Roeliff Jansen's Kil forms the east boundary. The soil is a fertile loam, and in some places sandy. Clermont near the east part of the town, has a population of 155. The first settlement was made at an early day by Germans, who occupied the lands as tenants. A school was established, in 1791, by a special act of the legislature, before any general school system had been adopted in the state. Robert R. Livingston, a prominent statesman of the Revolution and the first chancellor of the state, was a resident of this town. A German Lutheran church, about three miles west of the village of Clermont, is the only church in town.

COPAKE—was formed from Taghkanick, March 26, 1824. It lies on the east border of the county between Hillsdale and Ancram. Its surface is broken by ranges of hills separated by broad and fertile valleys. A high and nearly unbroken range extends along the east border. In the town are several small lakes, the principal of which are Copake Lake in the west, and Robinson's, Snyder and Rhoda ponds in the south. The soil is gravelly and clayey loam. Near Copake station are several iron mines. Copake Station (Copake Iron Works p. o.), on the Harlem Railroad contains one church, a blast furnace, and twenty-six houses; Copake Flats (Copake p. o.) contains one church and twenty houses; and Baine's Station (North Copake p. o.) a station on the Harlem Railroad, fifteen houses. The settlement of this town commenced about the middle of the last century. A Reformed Protestant Dutch church was the first church organized, and the Rev. Jeremiah Romeyn was the first pastor. The census reports three churches: Methodist Episcopal, Presbyterian and Protestant Episcopal.

GALLATIN—was formed from Ancram, March 27, 1830. It lies near the center of the south border of the county. The surface is broken by several ranges of hills, which extend in a north and south direction. The highest point is Mattashuk Hill south of Lake Charlotte. Roeliff Jansen's Kil is the principal stream; its banks are steep and in some places rocky. Charlotte Lake, in the north part of the town, is a fine sheet of water, surrounded by gentle slopes cultivated to the water's edge. The soil is a slaty and gravelly loam, and moderately fertile. Gallatinville, on Roeliff Jansen's Kil, contains a grist mill and eleven houses; Weaver Hollow, Jackson's Corners, (on the line of and p. o. in Dutchess county), and Union Corners (partly in Livingston), are hamlets. The town was settled at a very early day by emigrants from Holland and Germany. A Reformed Protestant Dutch church was organized in 1748, and the Rev. Mr. Freymoot was the first pastor. There are two churches in town: Reformed Protestant Dutch and Methodist Episcopal.

GHEENT—was formed from Chatham, Claverack and Kinderhook, April 3, 1818; and a part of Stockport was taken off in 1833. It was an interior town north of the center of the county. Its surface is hilly in the east and undulating in the west. The town is watered by several small streams tributary to Kinderhook and Claverack Creeks. The soil is mostly a gravelly loam, but in some parts it is clayey. Ghent, in the east part of the town, is a station on the Hudson & Boston and Harlem Railroads. It contains two churches and eighteen houses. West Ghent contains one church and sixteen houses. Pulver's Station is on the Hudson & Boston Railroad. The first settlement was made about 1735, by emigrants from Holland and Germany. There are four churches in town: Reformed Protestant Dutch, Evangelical, Methodist and Friends.

GREENPORT—was formed from Hudson City, May 13, 1837. It lies upon the Hudson, near the center of the west border of the county. Its surface is broken and hilly. Beacroft's Mountain in the east part of the town, is nearly precipitous upon its west side. Merino Point, near the Hudson, has an elevation of two hundred and fifty feet above the river. Claverack Creek forms the east boundary of the town, and a small tributary of this stream and Kahseway Creek are the principal water courses. The intervalle of the latter is broad and fertile. The soil is clayey along the river and a sandy and gravelly loam in the interior. Limestone is extensively quarried on the east side of Beacroft's Mountain. Oak Hill is a station on the Hudson River Railroad in the southwest part of the town. A steam ferry connects this place with Catskill Point on the opposite side of the Hudson. Settlement commenced in this town about the middle of the last century. There is but one church (Reformed Protestant Dutch) in town.

GERMANTOWN—was formed as a district April 1, 1775, and recognized as a town March 7, 1788. A part of Clermont was annexed, March 2, 1858. It lies upon the Hudson, in the south part of the county. The surface is undulating. Roeliff Jansen's Kil forms the north boundary. The soil is a rich, fertile loam, sandy in a few places. Germantown contains one church and nineteen houses, and East Camp seventeen houses. The first settlement was made in 1710, by German Palatinates, under the patronage of Queen Anne. The first arrival was in 1710; and on the 1st of May, 1711, there were 1178 settlers in the town, and the four villages, Hunterstown, Queensbury, Annsberg and Haysburgh had sprung into existence. A school was established in 1711. The Reformed Protestant Dutch church was formed in 1728, and Johannes Van Driesen was the first pastor. The census reports three churches in town: Evangelical Lutheran, Methodist Episcopal and Reformed Protestant Dutch.

HILLSDALE—was formed from Claverack, as a district March 26, 1782, recognized as a town March 7, 1788, and a part of Austerlitz was taken off in 1818. The surface is broken by ranges of high hills extending in a north and south direction and separated by narrow valleys. Green River crosses the northeast corner; and several small streams, which form the headwaters of Roeliff Jansen's and Claverack Creeks takes their rise in the town. The soil is a gravelly loam and clay. Hillsdale, a station on the Harlem Railroad in the south part of the town, contains two churches and has a population of 225; Harlemville contains one church and 225 inhabitants, and Green River one church and about twelve houses. The town was settled at a very early day—the south part by emigrants from Massachusetts, and the north by Dutch settlers. The first church (Baptist) was organized June 23, 1787, and Rev. Stephen Gano, D. D., was pastor. There are six churches in town: three Methodist Episcopal, Baptist, Christian and Presbyterian.

HUDSON CITY—was formed from Claverack, and incorporated as a city, April 22, 1785. A part of Stockport was taken off in 1833, and Greenport in 1837. It lies upon the east bank of the Hudson, at head of the ship navigation, near the center of the west border of the county. The surface is a rolling upland. A slate bluff rises abruptly from the river to the height of sixty feet, and from its summit a beautiful rolling ridge extends eastward and slopes gradually upward for a distance of one and a half miles terminating in Prospect Hill, a high, rounded eminence three hundred feet above the surrounding lands and five hundred feet above the river. This ridge is from six to fifty rods in width, and is bounded on the north and south by gradual and uniform slopes. North and South Bays (two shallow bodies of water) extend about one thousand feet inland from the river, converting the west extremity of the ridge into a promontory. A public square, containing an area of about an acre and a half, has been laid out upon the summit of the bluff overlooking the river, and furnishing one of the most beautiful public prome-nades in the country. From the summit of Prospect Hill an extensive view is obtained of the windings of the Hudson, with the distant Catskills on one side, and the green hills of Massachusetts on the other.

In the river, opposite the city, is an extensive mud flat, through which a canal has been cut for the Hudson and Athens Ferry. This canal has recently been abandoned.

This city is the western terminus of the Hudson & Boston Railroad and an important station on the Hudson River Railroad. The manufactures are extensive, consisting principally of iron and clothing. A considerable amount of commerce is carried on by means of the Hudson.

The City Hall is a brick building, situated on Warren street near the center of the city. The lower story is used for mercantile purposes.

The Public Schools are in a flourishing condition. In 1857 the city was divided into four districts, and gave employment to twenty-one teachers—five males and sixteen females. The number of children between the ages of four and twenty-one was 2562 of which 1095 (or 42 $\frac{3}{4}$ per cent.) were in attendance some portion of the year. The total expenses of the schools for that year was \$4448.38; total receipts, the same; number of volumes in district libraries, 700. A Lancasterian School Society was incorporated April 15, 1817, and it maintained a school many years.

The Hudson Academy building, a plain, three story brick edifice near Prospect Hill, was erected in 1805. The Hudson Female Academy was organized in 1851, and occupies a substantial stone edifice formerly used as a private lunatic asylum.

The Orphan Asylum was established in October, 1843, and is in charge of a board of lady managers. Forty to sixty children are provided for. It is supported by private donations, assisted by an annual stipend of $1000 from the county.

The city contains eleven private schools, two public libraries, three banks, and three newspaper offices. Population 6,720.

A Lunatic Asylum was established here in 1832, but it was given up upon the opening of the State Asylum at Utica. The first religious organization (a Society of Friends) was formed in 1784, and a meeting house was built in 1785. They are now eleven churches in the city: Baptist, Methodist Episcopal, Presbyterian, Protestant Episcopal, Reformed Protestant Dutch, Roman Catholic, Universalist, Wesleyan, Methodist, African Methodist and two Friends meeting houses.

Hudson was formerly known as Claverack Landing. The foundation of its future prosperity as a city was laid by Seth and Thomas Jenkins and their associates in 1783. It grew with great rapidity, and soon became the center of a very extensive commercial business. In 1775 it became a port of entry, and at an early period its commerce extended to the West Indies and Europe. Shad and herring, from the river and coast fisheries, ship timber, and country produce were exported, and numbers of ships were employed in the whale fisheries. The embargo, and the war which followed, destroyed this trade. The whaling business was afterwards resumed, and for some time prosecuted with success; but it has since been entirely abandoned. A daily line of steamers plies between this city and Albany, and the day line between Albany and New York touches here.

KINDERHOOK—was formed as a district March 22, 1772, and reorganized as a town March 7, 1788. A part of Chatham was taken off in 1795, a part of Ghent in 1818, and Stuyvesant in 1823. It occupies the central part of the north border of the county. The surface is level or undulating. Kinderhook Lake in the northeast part, is about four miles in circumference. The principal streams are Kinderhook Creek and the outlet of Kinderhook Lake. The soil is a fertile, sandy, and gravelly loam. Kinderhook, situated on the creek of the same name, was incorporated April 18, 1838. It contains four churches, the Kinderhook Academy, a newspaper office, two banks and several manufacturing establishments. Population 1078. Lindenwald, the residence of the late ex-President Martin Van Buren, is about two miles south of this village. Valatie, situated at the junction of Kinderhook Creek and the outlet of Kinderhook Lake, was incorporated June 30, 1856. It contains four churches, five cotton factories, and several other manufactories. Niverville on the outlet of Kinderhook Lake, is a station on the Albany and West Stockbridge Railroad. It contains a wadding factory, batting factory, grist mill and twenty-one houses. Settlements commenced under the Dutch Government. The rights of certain settlers were confirmed by the act of March 12, 1793. A controversy concerning the patent of John Hendrick De Bruyn, granted in 1686, was settled by commissioners June 8, 1812. A Reformed Protestant Dutch church was organized in 1712. Rev. Johannes Lydius of Albany conducted the first religious services, and Rev. J. Van Driesen was the first settled pastor. There are eight churches in town: two Methodist Episcopal, Baptist, Evangelical Lutheran, Presbyterian, Protestant Episcopal, Reformed Protestant Dutch, Roman Catholic.

LIVINGSTON—was granted as a manor, July 22, 1686, formed as a district, March 21, 1772, and organized as a town, March 7, 1788. Clermont was taken off in 1787, and Ancram and Taghkanick in 1803. It is situated in the southwest corner of the county, bordering on the Hudson. The surface is generally undulating. Claverack Creek crosses the northeast corner, Kleina Kil flows through near the center, and Roeliff Jansen's Kil forms the southwest boundary. In most of its course this last stream flows through a broad and fertile valley, but near the Hudson its banks are steep and rocky. The soil is a fertile, sandy loam. Johnstown (Livingston p. o.) situated near the center of the town, contains one church, a parochial school, and twenty-eight houses. Glencoe Mills, on Claverack Creek, contains a free chapel, two saw mills and sixteen houses. Baker's Mills, on Roeliff Jansen's Kil, contains a woolen factory, two paper mills, a grist mill and ten dwellings. Elizaville, Blue Store and Linlithgo are hamlets. Settlement commenced soon after the patent was granted. There are four churches in town: two Reformed Protestant Dutch, Evangelical Lutheran, Methodist Episcopal.

NEW LEBANON—was formed from Canaan, April 21, 1818. It is the northeast corner town of the county. The surface consists of steep hills separated by broad, irregular valleys. The Taghkanick Mountains upon the east separate this town from Massachusetts. The Wyomanock or Lebanon Creek is the principal stream. The soil is gravelly and slaty loam intermixed with clay. The valleys are generally narrow and the hill arable to their summits. Lebanon Springs (New Lebanon Springs p. o.) in the east part of the town, is celebrated for its thermal springs. It contains two churches, four hotels, a female seminary and a grist mill. Population 278. Tilden's (New Lebanon p. o.) contains one church, a barometer and thermometer manufactory, a laboratory for the preparation of medicinal extracts, and thirty-five houses. New Lebanon Center contains a grist mill, saw mill tannery and twenty-two houses; Moffatt's Store, one church and twenty-three houses; and New Britain, one church and six houses. In the east part of the town about two miles south of Lebanon Springs, is a large Shaker community. The first settlement was made about 1760, by immigrants mostly from Massachusetts and Connecticut. They are eight churches in town: three Methodist Episcopal, Baptist, Christian, Presbyterian, Roman Catholic and a Shaker meeting house.

STOCKPORT—was formed from Hudson, Ghent and Stuyvesant, April 30, 1833. It lies upon the Hudson, north of the center of the county. The surface consists of a high table land, rising from the river in bluffs and descending with a moderate slope toward the east. Kinderhook and Claverack Creeks unite near the center of the town. The valley of these streams are narrow and their banks often steep and rocky. Near Stottsville are four mineral springs, known as the Columbia Springs. Stockport, situated at the junction of the Kinderhook and Claverack Creeks, contains three churches, several manufactories and forty-four dwellings. Chittenden's Falls contains one church, two paper mills and fourteen dwellings, and Stottsville two woolen factories and twenty-one dwellings. Columbiaville (Stockport station on the Hudson River Railroad) is situated on the Hudson. This town was settled at an early period by the Dutch. There are four churches in town: Methodist Episcopal, Baptist, Protestant Episcopal and Universalist.

STUYVESANT—was formed from Kinderhook, April 21, 1823, and a part of Stockport was taken off in 1833. It is the northwest corner town of the county, is situated on the bank of the Hudson, and includes the adjacent islands east of the middle of the river. The surface is generally level, except along the river bank, where it is broken by ravines and low hills. Kinderhook Creek crosses the south part of the town. This soil is generally clayey, but in some places it is a light, sandy loam. Stuyvesant Falls, on Kinderhook Creek, contains one church, several manufactories and thirty-five houses. Stuyvesant Landing (Stuyvesant

p. o.) on the Hudson, contains one church, a flouring mill, a foundry, two coal yards, a lumber yard and thirty-four houses. It is a steamboat landing and a station on the Hudson River Railroad. Coxsackie Station, on the Hudson River Railroad, has half a dozen houses. At this place is a ferry to Coxsackie (Greene county) on the opposite side of the river. The first settlement was made by the Dutch about the period of the English conquest. They are three churches in town: Evangelical Lutheran, Reformed Protestant Dutch and Methodist Episcopal.

TAGHKANICK—was formed from Livingston as Gran-ger, March 19, 1803. Its name was changed March 25, 1814, and Copake was taken off in 1824. It is an interior town, lying south of the center of the county. The surface is hilly. Taghkanick Creek is the principal stream. Its banks are low and rocky, and upon it are numerous mill sites. The soil is a gravelly and slaty loam. The hills are generally arable to their summits, although some are wooded and rocky. West Taghkanick contains one church, a grist mill and fourteen houses. Taghkanick and New Forge are hamlets. The first settlements were made by German and Dutch settlers, among whom were families named Brises, Shurts and Shoefelts. A tract of about 600 acres, called Taghkanick, included in this town, was purchased by Robert Livingston in 1685. The first church (Methodist Episcopal) was organized in 1843. They are now two churches in town: Evangelical Lutheran and Methodist Episcopal.

A LINK IN THE NATIONAL CHAIN.

W. H. CLARK,

E. G. FOLSOM,

RESIDENT PRINCIPALS.

A Scholarship in this College admits to either of the others, located at TROY, NEW YORK, BROOKLYN, PHILADELPHIA, BUFFALO, CLEVELAND, DETROIT, CHICAGO, ST. LOUIS.

Design.

It is to impart a thorough business education, in the use of the best means to that end.

Theory.

For the purpose of eliminating the theory and principles of Bookkeeping and its adjunctive branches, the CHAIN of Colleges, in addition to a thorough manuscript course representing all kinds of business, has published elaborate works on Accounts, Calculations, Law and Penmanship.

Practice.

In order to practicalize theoretical knowledge, the various Business Houses, namely: Banking, Commission, Insurance, Wholesale, Retail, Rail Road, &c., are extemporized and represented by the students of the College, who do business among themselves, same as in actual practice.

True Combination.

This course of study then does not run altogether to THEORY, without art and reduction; nor all to PRACTICE, without greater knowledge and discipline in the more difficult transactions of business.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

TIME OF COMMENCING.—Students can commence at any time, as there are no vacations.

INDIVIDUAL INSTRUCTION.—Each student receives individual instruction.

PREPARATORY EDUCATION.—A knowledge of the ordinary English branches is sufficient preparatory to entering upon the course of studies.

TERMS.—Tuition payable in advance, by purchase of Scholarship, $40, for the full course.

REVIEW.—Students holding a Scholarship for the full course, can review at any time without additional charge.

GRADUATES.—Students who complete the entire course and pass the requisite examination, will receive Diplomas.

STATIONERY.—The books, paper, &c., necessary for completing the full course, will cost from $6 to $12, depending upon the number of articles purchased.

BOARDING.—Good board in private families can always be secured by application at the College Rooms, at from $2.50 to $3.50 per week.

TIME REQUIRED.—Average time required is from twelve to sixteen weeks.

EMPLOYMENT.—The Principals and Teachers of this Chain of Colleges have an extensive acquaintance in ten large cities, and always consider it a pleasure to further the best interests of their graduates.

Notice to Business Men.

Business men will find it to their advantage to call at our office, or address us through the Post, when in want of an accountant, collector, agent or salesman. They can always be furnished with a reliable person for either of the above named positions.

ALBANY
AND BOARDING SCHOOL.

This is one of the oldest institutions for the education of females in this country. Its Graduates and Pupils, many of whom have enjoyed its advantages from the very commencement of school life, are to be found in all parts of the land, and adorn the highest social positions.

The Trustees have spared no pains or expense in furnishing it with the most approved and complete appointments, and with a corps of Teachers believed to be unsurpassed in any similar institution.

In addition to its regular course of English studies, facilities are afforded for the acquisition of every accomplishment belonging to a liberal culture and a complete education.

GYMNASTIC EXERCISES are daily practiced under the direction of a Lady who devotes her whole time to the Department of Physical Education.

Parents wishing to place their daughters under the more especial care of the Principal, will find his residence one of the most beautiful and appropriate in the city, and may derive all the advantages of the best Boarding Schools.

SPECIAL OPPORTUNITIES.

For the acquirement of the FRENCH LANGUAGE are offered, as well as for the study and practice of MUSIC.

Further information, circulars, &c., can be obtained of the Principal, Rev. EBEN S. STEARNS, Ashgrove, corner of Broad and Westerlo Streets; at the Academy in North Pearl Street, or of any of the Trustees.
